TIMMY MURPHY is a red-hot favourite to be top jockey at the three-day Paddy Power Open meeting starting at Cheltenham today.

And for the second day running he rode a double to show his fans he is the jock to follow despite cramped odds of 5-4 with the sponsors to be top man.

His latest twosome was at Taunton yesterday on Regal Bandit for Henrietta Knight and Lutea for Martin Pipe.

And it is the Pipe horses that will see Murphy land the honours according to Totesport, who go 11-10.

Spokesman Damian Walker said last night: "Murphy looks to have the strongest book of rides and, if recent history is anything to go by, he will probably need to have at least three winners to be top jockey. He could do that tomorrow with Martin Pipe's Marcel, Well

Chief and Comply Or Die all holding strong claims.

"Tony McCoy (8-1), with 15 winners at this meeting in the last three years, is up against it as he misses Saturday through against it as he misses Saturday through suspension and the O'Neill stable are not firing on all cylinders. McCoy's old bos Pipe has traditionally done well at the Open and McCoy may have to look to Pipe for his best chances again." Last year's Paddy Power Gold Cup win-ner Fondmort has been well backed with Coral for a repeat win in the race tomor-ner Foldmort has been wen backet with Coral for a repeat win in the race tomor-row, and Nicky Henderson's horse is now 8-1 (from 10-1) third favourite for the Cheltenham showpiece. Fondmort heads the weights of the 14 horses declared with Monkerhostin the favourite.

RACING EXTRA

BEST MATE looks increasingly likely to make his eagerly-awaited seasonal debut at Exeter next week - with Tony McCoy taking over from the injured Jim Culloty. Connections of the triple Cheltenham Gold Cup hero have said they will not risk the Henrietta Knight-trained nine-year-old on very soft ground.

A But conditions at the track have been improving and owner Jim Lewis said: "With the ground drying out all the time, it looks as if he will be running in the William Hill Chase next Friday and Hen is more relaxed about it."

TONY LEWIS was among the winners at all four meetings yesterday.
His haul of success included his nap Red Society (11-4) at Taunton and Gallery Breeze (13-2) at Wolverhampton. Starform went even better giving the forecast with Gallery Breeze to beat Eastborough (4-1) which Gailery Breeze to beat Eastborough (4-1) which paid odds of 31-1. Star Tip (Peter Thickett) chipped in with 7-1 Colliers Court at Ludlow.

NINJA LARK (10.08) and Knockeevan Magic, two of Romford's best-loved stars in recent years, are back on the track following enforced spells of inactivity and they go head-to-head in the top division of the 400m contest at the Essex track tonight.

Not surprisingly, both suffered defeats on their respective comebacks with Ninja Lark suffering

Both sets of supporters will be high in confidence, but Ninja Lark would appear to have both a draw and fitness edge over Peter Rich's former

Laurels winner and he is taken to compliment last week's satisfactory victory in what should Teds World Cup (9.52) was another from the Paul Young kennel to score last week after an absence and he will be advantaged rather than inconvenienced by the switch midfield in the second division of the 575m and, providing he clears Rich's Different Gravy early, should follow the low-up.

Young and Rich again lock horns in the top 575m contest, but this time it should be Rich coming out on top.

Battle

Just a length split his Denmarknick (10.24) and Young's Legal Knight, with Remember Billy and Lemon Sparky comfortably held in third and fourth respectively over C&D last week and the quartet do battle again.

Although sent off a hot even-money favourite to give Young an eight-timer at the open race meet last week, Legal Knight could never get to Denmarknick, who bulleted out of the three-box and maintained a strong gallop throughout.

On that evidence - which was very accurate to both dogs styles of running - there would seem no reason for expecting a reversal in form and no reason for expecting a reversal in form and the same outcome, even down to fourth place, looks very much on the cards. A 750m contest

ON THE MARK: Romford tip Denmarknick

brings the curtain down on the meeting and, while it is tempting to side with Wilcox Dream as she recently ran Tuesday's St Leger runer-up and former winner Shelbourne Star to a length and a half in the first round of the stayers Classic, she has not won from 19 starts in this country and her only career success came on her Irish debut at Waterford in March March

March.
The rest look much of a muchess and, with the race likely to turn into a muddling affair, the advice has to be 'no bet'.
Five opens spice up the Henlow card with Anchor Bay Piper (9.59) the banker from red in the 550m contest.

Brian banking on Danny

GB coach Brian Noble has pinned his faith on stand-off Danny McGuire for tomorow's crucial Gillette Tri-Nations Series clash with Australia.

Series clash with Australia.

Noble gave little away by naming a 19man squad for the sell-out game at Wigan's JJB Stadium, but revealed that McGuire and Sean Long will continue the half-back partnership that began to blossom in the second half of last Saturday's 22-12 win over New Zealand.

The 21-year-old, who scored a phenomenal 39 tries for champions
Leeds this year, made the vital break which produced the match-winning try for winger Stuart Reardon.

But the 16 stone 6ft 3in Rhino who tore great holes in both New Zealand and Australia in recent Test series – earning himself a place in an elite World X111 – senses that he's not far away from hitting the high spots again.

total crowd for first four games 95,000 - will be staying in Britain. It's all to do with TV deals and the Australian reluctance to watch rugby out of season (nobody told them that when they staged the RU World Cup last year). So British fans can now enjoy a season lasting from the beginning of February to the end of November - plus a few "off-season" games in December and January. Is that too much of a good thing?

MAN OF FEW WORDS: But Jason Robinson's actions will always speak for themselves

LEWIS Moody will end the most frustrating year of his career when he lines up for England tomorrow. He returns to international action for the first time since the World Cup final almost 12 months ago, spearheading a back-row including Andy Hazell and Martin Corry.

And is just happy to be back playing after spending almost 10 months on the sidelines following a potentially career-ending foot injury he first noticed while climbing up the step of the World Cup plane bound for Australia last autumn.

"It's just a genuine happiness and excitement to be back playing," said

Moody, who had surgery after the World Cup.

"I coped very, very poorly. I've always been a very active person and to be told you've got to be completely non-weight bearing on your foot for 16 weeks was tough.

"There were down periods, but you realise why you're doing the rehab and the goal at the end of the road is really worth it."

The prize for the 26-year-old, who made his international debut against Canada in 2001, is a chance to make the England open-side flanker spot vacated by Leicester colleague Neil Back, his very own.

Bradford prop Stuart Fielden, man of the match in Britain's first Tri-Nations outing, resumed training yesterday after being sent home at the start of the week.

"He practised well today and seems to be in good spirits," said Noble.

"There is a good spirit in the camp. The focus is on winning the Test match.

"Everybody who has been able to practice has practised well and we're delighted with them."

One man fit and raring to go is skipper Andy Farrell, who was one of the players badly affected by illness during the win over the Kiwis.

WORLD BEATER: Robinson dives in for his try in the World Cup

Final last November

ENGLAND think Jason Robinson has got the captain's X Factor.

They don't know what it is but they love it. Robinson doesn't know what it is either but he loves it too.

doesn't know what it is either but he loves it too. It's something great captains are born with, something that takes an individual on to a different level. Martin Johnson's got it, so too Lawrence Dallagito. The late Bobby Moore, Bryan Robson, certainly Roy Keane at Manchester United all had that secret formula that turned them into a special leader. Has David Beckham got the X Factor? Not sure about that. So who inspired Robinson from other sports when he was growing up, who does he look at now with respect?

"No one really," he says.

"No one really," he says.
"I have never been one to follow sport that seriously. Never really taken notice.

Black

"I know who I learned from in rugby, men like Andy Farrell, Dean Bell, Jonno and Lawrence Dallaglio but from other sports? No-one."
Not the answer I expected although it just emphasised what an extraordinary character he is.
At Twickenham tomorrow Robinson completes a remarkable full circle when he becomes the first when he becomes the first black man and the first for-black man and the first former rugby league player to captain England at Union. It's one of the fairy-tale stories of this sporting year and Robinson didn't appear fazed by the prospect. Why should he? From a violent childhood, a drink problem that almost drove him to suicide, Robinson has met and beaten bigger challenges. A Born Again Christian, he had to ask

WOOL

The Lord and his wife, Amanda, if it was right to captain his country. They both said "yes" and, after waiting 24 hours to answer new England coach Andy Robinson, he said it would be an honour. Coach Robinson says: "Since being told, Jason has responded and has got tremendous standing in has responded and has got tremendous standing in the team. He doesn't use lots of words but when he does everyone listens. He's mentally strong."

Assistant coach Phil Larder adds: "Certain players, certain men are unique in that there is something inside that makes them different.

"What shall we call it, the X Factor. Johnson had it and when he sat in the dressing room you could see other players looking at him and thinking Tm glad he's on our side. The same applies to Robinson.

"They are inspirational characters who lead by example. They are role models and every youngster in the country should look at Robinson and say to himself 'I can do this'."

Quality

Robinson, 30, is aware of his responsibilities and says: "The greatest quality a captain can have is the respect of his team-mates. "A lot of people say the right words but they are no good if you can't back them up."

Robinson is aware of the pressure and knows his life is about to change, even if he is only a stopgap captain while Jonny Wilkinson gets himself fit.

He added: "It is not a case

He added: "It is not a case of not liking all the stuff that goes on around David Beckham, yet anyone in life that has a high position must take responsibility. "The media, public, everyone is looking at you differently. I spoke to my wife because this new thing in my life puts me under pressure, more of my time is taken away and to have her 100 per cent backing was important. "She has helped with enough stuff that has happened to me and she has always given me good."

nappenea to me ana sne has always given me good advice. She said 'yes' and so did The Lord. I know that being captain of England is good for me. "I have been blessed and "I have been blessed and at the start of this season I didn't believe anything else could happen to me. "Then Sale asked me to be captain and now England. "As a captain I will not be a crockery thrower although I will not be afraid to kick backsides if I have to. I will also lean on other experienced players, other experienced players

as I have with Sale, and

as I have with Sale, and make decisions with them.
"I am not the best captain since sliced bread and am learning as Igo along."
He's one of those rare sportsmen who, when they get the ball, bring an instant reaction of expectancy Like Bobby Charlton, Wayne Rooney or Wilkinson.

Feeling

Twickenham gets to its feet when Robinson comes into play. "I hear them and it excites me," he says. "It's a wonderful feeling." The England team that runs out against Canada tomorrow will have only four survivors from the World Cup winning side — Robinson, Josh Lewsey, Mike Tindall and Steve Thompson. Others are injured, lost form or retired from internationals. Robinson's career you feel is just starting. The fullback, with 19 tries in 33 Tests, is ready to open up another chapter.

RONNIE O'Sullivan was far happier with life last night after storming into the quarter-finals of the British Open in Brighton.
O'Sullivan, who had questioned his snooker future as he scraped past John Parrott in the previous round, fired in two century breaks to defeat Stephen Lee 5-0.

The world champion extended his run of victories in ranking events to 13 matches with any thoughts of retirement amarently long forgotten.

"There's no point quoting me because what I say from one day to the next will be different," the unpredictable O'Sullivan admitted.

Flying

"It's important to play well and put in good performances for your whole well being. I didn't enjoy my match with John – but I enjoyed the one today.
"The standard is so high that you have to push yourself. It's not hard to motivate yourself these days because you know you have to." O'Sullivan, whose only British Open title success came 10 years ago, opened the match with a break of 127 and ended it with one of 100 to extend his record against Lee to nine victories in 11 meetings.

"The century Ronnie had in the first frame settled him down," said Lee.

"When I did get a chance I just felt cold."

Ding's progress has attracted huge media interest in China – but after edging 2-1 ahead, he found Maguire too hot to handle.

BRITISH welterweight champion David Barnes has been likened to a "young Sugar Ray Leonard" by boxing legend Barry McGuigan. Barnes defends his title against James Hare at the Northbridge Leisure Centre in Halifax tonight and former WBC world featherweight king McGuigan can"t speak highly enough of him.

McGuigan, a Sky TV pundit tonight, said:
"Watching him at times reminds me of a young Sugar Ray Leonard with the fast hands and fast foot movement, flashy style and accuracy."

Leonard was a champion at five different weights and McGuigan said: "Barnes doesn't have Leonard's punching potency nor his overall class, but there are resemblances and he is a kid that's constantly improving."

McGuigan said of challenger Hare: "He will be difficult to beat with his counter-punching style."

BOB TAYLOR strolls out in the FA Cup for the 22nd time tomorrow and admits he still gets the same buzz as he did the very first time.

as he did the very first time.

Taylor goes into Tamworth's first-round tie at Blackpool on the back of a sensational hat-trick.

And while he might be 38 in a couple of months' time, his treble against Leigh RMI should be enough to guarantee the former West Brom and Bolton favourite a start against the League One side.

Heroics

The cup has lost none of its appeal for Taylor, who went as far as the semi-finals with Bolton. And his heroics last week, as he helped turn around a 2-0 deficit against Leigh, means he goes into today's game a marked man. But Taylor revealed: "You still get the same buzz, probably even more so now because you know your career is coming to an end.

OLD SCORE: Garry Hill

HORNCHURCH boss Garry Hill has got an old score to settle with his Boston counterpart Steve Evans.

But as the Urchins sensationally went bust last week, Hill has got no experienced players to help him out.

Three years ago, Hill was in charge of Dagenham and Redbridge as they finished level on points with Boston at the top of the Conference.

Boston had the better goal difference and were allowed to go into the Football League – despite being found guilty of breaking the rules over player contracts.

Drake.

And Hill admitted: "I'll be scratching around until the last minute trying to get some people in. If I don't manage that it will be down to the kids."

IT sounds like a script from Dream Team – a player steps straight from a five-a-side kickabout into a sell-out FA Cup tie. But that is what is happening tomorrow when Charles Libam plays for Histon against Football League strugglers Shrewsbury. Libam, 23, a former Ivory Coast international who had come to England in search of work, was playing for role to play in the Newcastle manager's rebuilding plans.

Souness has pledged to strengthen the squad when the transfer window opens in January and Robert feared his face would not fit and looked to be on his way out.

But Souness has assured the mercurial Frenchman he still has a future at St James' Park and has shrugged off reports from across the Channel alleging unsettled Robert wants to quit.

The Newcastle boss said: "All he did was contact an official at Paris St Germain asking for tickets to a game for a member of his family.

of his family.
"I have to believe Laurent when he tells me he is happy here." Souness is encouraged that his defensive responsibilities are at last hitting home with Robert, who has been in and out of the side since the Scot took control.

Robert was the Toon's top performer in Wednesday's League Cup defeat against Chelsea and Souness added: "Laurent is a tremendous talent and provides great ammunition for our forwards.
"But it's my job to ensure he supports the defenders as well."

Centre-half Titus Bramble is another player winning over his boss and he may start his first league game of the season against Manchester United on Sunday.

Fans want cash back

ANGRY Southampton fans want the club's players to give them back the £30,000 they spent watching Tuesday's League Cup collapse.

Around 2,400 went to Watford to see their Premiership stars humiliated in a 5-2 thrashing, and they believe they deserve a refund.

Even Saints midfielder Rory Delap described the performance as "a disgrace" and a players meeting has been held to sort out the problems that have battered the club ahead of tomorrow's home clash with South Coast rivals Portsmouth.

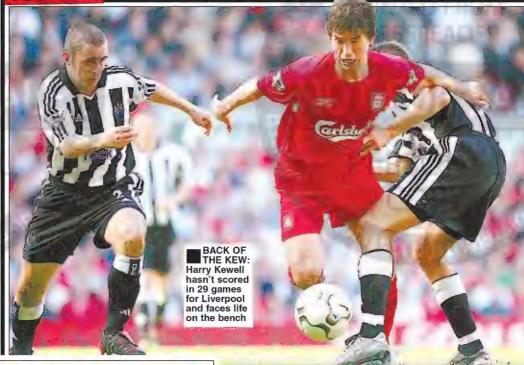

Republic of Ireland international Delap confirmed: "The players had a meeting away from the coaching staff. A lot of things were said and a lot of truths came out.

"Afterwards a couple of the senior players saw head coach Steve Wigley to pass on things that had been said. We feel it produced positive results all round."

Delap's apology on behalf of his team mates won't stop supporters insisting ing the bench if he can't hit top form last.

Boss Rafael Benitez has publically backed the 26-year-old to rediscover the vim and vigour that made him one of the Premiership's best players.

Liverpool's striker shortage means Kewell could be thrust into an attacking role once more against Crystal Palace tomorrow even though Milan Baros's hamstring problem is improving.

Tough

Kewell said: "Things haven't gone as well for me as I had hoped at Liverpool but I've definitely made a contribution.
"The competition for places is so tough right now that you know, and everyone knows, you could be one match away from the bench.
"That level of fear brings the best out of people and I hope it's true of me. I want to play some games and get back to the levels that I know I'm capable of. "I'm not there yet but I'm getting there with every passing week."

Kewell has been targeted by disgruntled fans after struggling throughout his 18 months at the club to find the sort of form that made him feared for Leeds.

But he said: "Some people think that if you don't beat every man in the team twice, whip in crosses from every angle and score a couple as well then you've not played well. I always set out to do that but you have to take the opponent into account and sometimes the tactics, too.

"We all had a new start at the beginning of the season when the new manager came in from Valencia. Suddenly the state was wiped clean and we've all had to prove ourselves again."

Kewell, who has not scored for 29 games in a Liverpool shirt, admits his quest for consistency has been hindered a series of niggling injuries. An ankle problem last season affected his rhythm while this season affected his rhythm while this season he has suffered with a knee injury. Benitez has devised a special fitness programme for Kewell but has warned it could take a month to feel the benefit.

Niggles

Kewell refuses to use the aches and pains as an excuse but told LFC magazine: "I'm not a player who has been what you could call regularly injured. "But I can't remember the last time I went into a game not feeling something, somewhere on my body.

"It's not just me though. I would be surprised if anyone anywhere ever goes out 100 per cent fit because there are always little knocks and niggles." "Pre-season training, or the first game of a new season — that's maybe the only time that you're at your peak."

Whichever, put your hand up if you felt Michael Owen would crash and burn at Real Madrid.
Go on, be honest with yourself. After his dreadful start I bet there were thousands who thought he had made the biggest mistake of his life.
Only a handful of British players have cut it abroad and Owen did not look like he would be one of them after such a poor beginning to his Bernabeu career.
Not only did he have people in Britain fully expecting him to return in the January transfer window, but they were on his back in Spain as well.
They had seen the cream of the crop signed as "Galacticos" in Madrid, with even David Beckham scoring in his first game for the club.

But Owen was questioned from the very beginning.

But Owen was questioned from the very beginning. Tomas Roncero, a highly-rated columnist in the sports paper AS, viciously wrote: "Owen is not Reyes, Owen is not Totti, Owen is not Drogba, Owen is not Adriano, Owen is not Figo, Owen is not Raul. Owen is not Zidane. Let's face it, Owen is not a Galactico."

He went on: "When Rafa Benitez sold us Owen he must have celebrated that night with a bottle of champagne."

What the Liverpool manager would give for Owen now, considering his injury list and the England man's form.
It should really be no surprise that Owen has hit back at his critics in the best way possible, with five goals in six games, two of them securing important 1-0 victories.

MALCOLM GLAZER has been challenged to "prove his backbone" by facing angry Manchester United shareholders at today's AGM.
United chief executive David Gill and the PLC Board are set to face a barrage of probing questions from shareholders desperate to block American tycono Glazer's bid to buy the club.
Gill announced earlier this month that the PLC had opted not to support Glazer's proposed buyout. But United fans are still vowing to make life tough for Glazer and Irish duo John Magnier and JP McManus, who own almost 60 per cent of the club between them.

He revealed: "It was not specifically aimed at Arsene or Alex (Ferguson), although obviously their recent disagreement has been well-publicised. "In our business, you are always going to get those sort of disagreements—although we would prefer them them to be kept in private if at all possible."
